"That's how we do it in Miami!"—a likely phrase to come from Dominique Scott when reminiscing about his hometown.

Born and raised in South Florida, Dominique — known to many as simply "Dom" — spent most of his early years training. Dom studied four years of classical piano and was an invited guest performer for the Chopin Foundation's annual concert before even graduating middle school. He then continued on to the New World School of the Arts, where he studied in their music theater conservatory. After honing his performance skills, he and his New York-based rock band, Domin8trx, released their debut album Carousel.

Now Dom is pursuing a solo career, still bringing his signature theatrics to his melodic, glam-rock musical style. His influences run the gamut of rock music, ranging from Aerosmith to Adam Lambert, Queen to Stevie Wonder. And every night, Dom gets to show his rockstar chops, performing as Drew in the touring production of Rock of Ages. From rocking the New York music scene to belting out classic rock hits on Broadway, Dom Scott is certainly making a name for himself in the music world. With nationwide glowing reviews of his vocals and undeniable, electric stage presence while performing, Dom Scott is on the fast track to full-blown rock greatness. And THAT is how they do it in Miami.
